Our Mission

Our mission is to provide the highest level of legal representation possible to the family members and victims of personal injury and wrongful death through our skilled advocacy, diligence, accessibility, experience and superior knowledge. Our goals are (1) to develop meaningful and productive relationships with our clients based on integrity, respect and concern for their individual and legal needs and circumstances, and (2) to achieve the best possible result in each of our clients' individual and unique case.

Excellence in Customer Service

We understand how scary the legal process can be for our clients. Believing that knowledge is power Davis Law Group strives to ensure that clients fully understand the legal process and receive the quality care and attention that they need. The firm employs a full time client relations manager whose primary job function is to develop client education materials that, created from the client's point of view, helps them fully understand the legal process and the services being provided by the firm. Each client is given a client satisfaction survey at the beginning and end of their relationship with the firm so we can constantly learn more about how we can improve the client experience.

No Win, No Fee Guarantee

The cost of legal services are always a major concern for people who have been injured in an accident and may have financial issues or be unable to work. We offer our legal services on a contingent fee basis. That means that there is no fee until our personal injury attorneys successfully recover fair compensation for you.

Davis Law Group is committed to the highest standard in legal representation. We believe as our injured person or client you have the:

- Right to easily get answers and help when they or a loved one is injured.

- Right to be updated regularly and on a timely manner as to the progress of your case.
- Right to a fair written fee agreement with our firm.

Code of Ethics

All attorneys are governed by a higher standard called the Code of Ethics. We believe as attorneys we must live by these ethics in all that we do and say. Among these ethics is one specific right you should be aware of that your lawyer is obligated to provide: attorney-client privilege.

Client Confidentiality

This is called attorney-client privilege. This means that a lawyer, or any member of his or her staff, cannot reveal most things you say or show to your lawyer. This is true if you have hired that lawyer or just talked with a lawyer and communicated certain information. There are exceptions such as someone who reveals something illegal such as a scheme to defraud or give perjured testimony.

Commitment to our Community

Chris and Mischelle Davis are thankful that owning and managing their own business gives them the flexibility and resources to give back to their community and to the charities that they care about. Not content to simply write checks to good causes Chris and Mischelle are using their business leadership skills to directly promote solutions for the causes that are important to them. They support existing programs which touch their hearts, they have also started several of their own programs in order to fill the gaps that are not covered by other groups.
